A trial size will be mailed for 10 cents. All druggists sell the 50c. size. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N.Y.

THE FLOWER OF FAME.

He sought it before the billow of spring on the meadow was seen,
When only the flush of the willow was tracing the river with green;
He scanned to the edge of the fraying snows that dappled the mountain slope,
And ever too late the March sun rose, for he searched the world with hope.

I saw him at noon of the summer day, and that was the favorite hour
To one who had hunted from March to May and never had found a flower,
For the light was full, as though the sun were aiding his eager quest,
And there were no warning shadows to run o'er his path from east or west.

And still in September's purple and gold he was hunting the grudging ground,
But not with the steady eye of old or the spring-time's joyous bound;
If he stopped in his feverish roaming, 'twas to question the darkling air.
Too early came the gloaming; he was searching with despair.

And while, for a chance of the rarest, he wanders in storm or heat,
He is blind to the charm of the fairest he is crushing beneath his feet
The flower of every valley, the flower of all the year,
Deep in whose broken blossom the dew lies like a tear.

—Robert Underwood Johnson in Century.

ALMOST A BURGLARY

An Old Lady Has Her Way and Her Niece Has a Wedding Present.

Mrs. Driscoll had a mind of her own. Some uncharitable people went so far as to say that if she had not had so much mind her husband might have been living today. Be that as it may, he died and left her sole mistress of a handsome property, with no one to oppose her will.

She adopted one of his nieces and loved her as well as she could love any one but herself.

The niece grew up a winsome lassie and had lovers, as maidens will.

Luckily her choice was her aunt's as well, and the day was set for her marriage with Harry Winship without opposition, the only condition being that they should return to Mrs. Driscoll's home after a brief wedding tour.

"Well, Kate," said the stately lady the day before the wedding, "everything is ready, and I must say that I never saw preparations more complete—not even for your uncle's funeral, poor man! I always meant to give you a handsome marriage portion. So get your hat. We'll go to the bank."

What girl would delay under similar circumstances?

The carriage was speedily ordered, and soon stopped before the bank.

Except the bank officials, there was in the building only George Travis, one of Kate's discarded suitors, who was getting an insignificant check cashed.

Mrs. Driscoll was not slow to see an opportunity to flutter her sails, as her worthy husband had been accustomed to say.

Drawing her checkbook, she smilingly wrote a check for £2,000 and presented it to the cashier.

"Payable to Miss Kate—a marriage portion, I presume. Ah, very generous of you! Miss Kate, I congratulate you," said the cashier. "Shall I make the new book in your own name?"

"She wants no book—at least not yet," retorted Mrs. Driscoll sharply. "When I give a thing, I give it. I want good, solid money for that check—bright, yellow gold."

"But—why—you live fully a mile from a neighbor. Have you—do you think of the temptation?" he said hesitatingly.

"Did I ask your advice?" snapped Mrs. Driscoll. "I am able to take care of my own property, and if it will not break the bank I want it in gold."

"Certainly, madam. My conscience is clear if you wake up to find yourself murdered tomorrow morning. This bank can pay ten times that sum at sight, madam," was the dignified reply, to which Mrs. Driscoll listened in curt silence.

The cashier went into the vault, closing the door behind him.

George Travis, having counted the money received on his check, went out without a glance at the two ladies.

"There! Now I reckon Travis begins to realize what he has lost," nodded Mrs. Driscoll.

Kate blushed slightly.

"But, aunt," she said uneasily, "wouldn't it be better for me to take a book with the money left to my credit? Harry will not be here until tomorrow, and—and think of the risk! It is unsafe."

"How long is it since I came to be told my duty by a miss of 18?" breathed Mrs. Driscoll scornfully. "What a coward you are! If you don't want the money, say so, and I'll let it remain where it is. If you do want it, hold your tongue and help me take care of it until I can give you both into Harry Winship's keeping."

Further conversation was prevented by the cashier's return.

He carried a strong iron box.

"Count it!" commanded Mrs. Driscoll.

One by one the golden coins were counted under her admiring eyes.

"There, that is money! That is like a wedding gift!" she ejaculated in a satisfied tone.

"Better let me give you a receipt for it and put it into the safe tonight," suggested the cashier.

"Put it into my carriage!" was the sharp order to the bank porter.

The man obeyed and watched with a puzzled face the carriage out of sight.

"She beats all I ever saw," he said. "I don't wonder her husband died."

Meanwhile Mrs. Driscoll returned home well satisfied with the world and herself in particular.

She had had her own way.

"I shall not put this under my pillow as I generally do," she said to Kate. "This box is harder than feathers. I shall put it under the corner of your bed."

"Thanks, aunt! Iron is as soft as feathers for me to lie on," laughed Kate.

"You needn't lie upon that side of the bed at all," was the cool reply.

"There's a man in the kitchen as says he's had not a mouthful to eat for ten days," said Norah, the servant, appearing at the door.

"The farm is only a mile farther on. Send him about his business," answered her mistress.

Norah went out.

Soon a figure clothed in rags went by the open window.

The man turned and shook his clinched fist at the astonished lady.

"Of all things! The impudent thing!" she gasped.

"Oh, but, aunt, I'm sure he has heard all that we said about that horrid money!" faltered Kate.

Mrs. Driscoll's face told the concern which she felt, but she turned her back upon her niece and took up a book.

Darkness came.

The lights in the house were extinguished at the usual time.

Kate could not sleep. In vain she counted slowly from 101 and said the letters of the alphabet backward.

She heard the village clock slowly strike the hour of midnight, then 1, 2 and 3.

Kate's apartment was dark, but the moon shone dimly into her aunt's room just across the hall.

Suddenly a form stood in the doorway, then vanished within.

Was it the tramp? Was that something in his hand a knife?

Kate stole softly through the doorway, listening breathlessly. Then she darted into a small room near Mrs. Driscoll's door.

Suddenly the door was noiselessly closed and a man stood so near her hiding place that she could hear his hurried breathing.

The faint odor of chloroform told why the door was closed.

What if he gave an overdose?

Kate loved the stern woman, and notwithstanding her timidity that thought nerved her to action.

She sprang from the room with a shrill cry, clinching both hands in the hair of the intruder. It is needless to say that he was startled out of what little common sense he possessed.

He threw her violently aside with a muttered oath and fled. But he left a generous lock of hair in her hands.

Her head struck a corner of the door in falling, and it was dawn when she awoke to full consciousness of what had happened.

Womanlike, she rushed to see if the iron box was still safe. It had not been disturbed. Then she threw open the door of Mrs. Driscoll's room. That lady was unconscious, but breathing evenly. Kate's courage returned.

Silently she opened the window, letting the fresh morning air draw freely through the room. Then she crept into her own bed to await developments.

Before sunrise Mrs. Driscoll awoke.

"Mercy on us!" she screamed. "Norah did not shut the window last night. I shall get my death of cold, Kate!"

But Kate did not stir until her name had been called several times. Then she answered drowsily.

"Get up, child! It's your wedding day, too, and I in danger of pneumonia," called her aunt.

Kate shut the window and helped the irate lady to dress, touching her hair with dainty, soothing fingers as she arranged it.

The household arose and went about its tasks. Visitors came and went. Kate kept her secret well. The ceremony was over which made her a wife. The bridal dress was exchanged for a traveling costume.

"I shall take the iron box to the bank as we go to the train, auntie," Kate said as she bade her goodby.

"As you please. I've had my say about it, and no harm came of it either," was the tart reply.

No one knew of the tragedy which did not take place in the silent watches of the night.

No one knew until Kate, nestling in her husband's clasp as the train sped onward, told him the story in her own way and time.

"But the hair—did you save it? It is a clew," he said quickly.

"I burned it," was the calm reply. "I did not need to save it, for I knew whose it was. I always thought he liked aunt's money better than me. Now I know that he coveted the dowry more than the bride. But the money is safe in the bank, and wasn't it strange that he should be there to see it deposited?"

"Not George Travis?' ejaculated Harry.

"Yes; let him go," she whispered softly, nestling closer. "Think what he lost—what you gained, Harry, dear. Let his own conscience punish him—if he has any. We'll never let aunt know. We will keep our first secret forever."

Harry Winship was a man. He could not refuse his wife's first request, and Mrs. Driscoll does not know to this day what danger menaced her.—Fred Small, Jr., in Cincinnati Herald.

Lease of Six Inches of Land.

A lease of six inches of ground at 117 Franklin street, Chicago, for 91 years and one month was recorded the other day. It runs from George L. Barber to Hiram B. Peabody and is for an annual rental of $45. The property has a depth of 8 feet and comprises the party wall between 117 and 115 Franklin street.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Muscles of the Head.

The head has 77 muscles—8 for the eyes and eyelids, 1 for the nose, 8 for the lips, 8 for the jaw, 11 for the tongue, 11 for the larynx, 11 for the ear, 17 for motions of the head and neck, 1 to move the hairy scalp and 1 for the eyebrows.

CURED BY LEOPARDS.

The Dying Man Suddenly Recovered His Health and Speed.

In "Lumsden of the Guides" there is an interesting story, says the London Chronicle, of the rescue by Lieutenant Peyton of her majesty's Eighty-seventh of a young Pathan who had fallen into the Kabul river. The lad's father, in his gratitude, came down from his home in Independent Territory, and as a thank offering presented Peyton with two young leopard cubs. Peyton, being an executive engineer and constantly on the move, could make no home for them and gave them to Lumsden, who himself told me what follows, and it seems to me worth preserving, as leopards seldom have an opportunity of assisting in a criminal investigation. The animals were too young to be dangerous and were allowed their liberty.

One day Lumsden was holding his court in Yusufzal, when in the middle of a case there was an uproar, and the two sides in an affray case poured into the court, and, as always happens, each side accused the other of being entirely in fault. One party, to improve its case, brought a dying man on a native bed. A blood stained sheet was removed, showing a much belabored man, who appeared to be at the last gasp. Lumsden had the bed put down in court and went on with the interrupted case. Just then the young leopards sauntered in, probably attracted by the scent of blood, and, moving gently around the court, approached the bed and began sniffing at the wounded man, who, miraculously recovered, jumped from the bed and fled rapidly.

Made For the Place.

While traveling in a coal mine district, says Dr. Cuyler, I noticed how very dingy the town appeared. The coal dust seemed to blacken buildings, trees, shrubs, everything, but as a foreman and I were walking near the mines I noticed a beautiful white flower. Its petals were as pure as if it were blooming in a daisy field.

"What care the owner of this plant must take of it," said I, "to keep it so free from dust and dirt!"

"See here," said the foreman, and taking up a handful of coal dust threw it over the flower. It immediately fell off and left the flower as stainless as before.

"It has an enamel," the foreman explained, "which prevents any dust from clinging to it. I think it must have been created for just such a place."

Legends of the Apple.

The apple enters more largely into folklore and legend than almost any other fruit. In England there was of old a peculiar dance in honor of the apple tree, and various songs were sung and bowls of cider emptied to secure a good apple harvest from the fates. In Germany the girls "snap apple seeds" on New Year's eve to see from which direction a lover is coming. In Austria a girl cuts an apple in two at one blow and counts the seeds. If there are as many in one half as in the other, she will marry. If they are odd, she will be an old maid. If a seed is cut in two, she will quarrel with her husband and be separated from him.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Not a Real Count.

Myrtle—Why do you think the count is a fraud?

Alice—Because of the way he acted when I showed him the paper containing an account of papa's failure.

Myrtle—What did he do? Break the engagement?

Alice—No. He threw his arms around me and said, "Never mind, darling; you and I can be happy as long as we are left to each other, no matter whether we have money or not."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Flowers are the terrestrial stars that bring down heaven to earth and carry up our thoughts from earth to heaven, the poetry of the Creator written in beauty and fragrance.

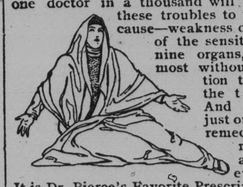
Christian Women, in the old Roman days of Nero, were cast into the dens of lions where they died a horrible, but fortunately speedy death. The world has progressed, but ignorance still condemns thousands of innocent women to an equally painful and more lingering death.

The woman who day after day is tortured by headaches, despondency irritability, nervousness, lassitude, weak back, pains and dragging sensations in the abdomen and similar symptoms, suffers a martyrdom that not even a Nero could invent. Not one doctor in a thousand will attribute these troubles to the right cause—weakness or disease of the sensitive feminine organs, yet almost without exception there lies the trouble. And there is just one known remedy that reaches and cures every case.



It is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes women young again. It gives new strength and virility to the organs long harassed by weakness and disease. It promptly heals inflammation and ulceration, stops weakening drains and restores the health and vigor of youth. It fits for wifehood and prepares for motherhood. It banishes morning sickness and other discomforts of ante-maternity. It makes "new women." One letter among thousands says:

J. S. Carlisle, Esq., of Manchester, Coffee Co., Tenn., writes: "I am superintendent of the Coffee County Poor-house and Asylum combined. Your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Pleasant Pellets' are the best medicines for the diseases for which they are recommended, that I ever used. They saved my wife's life at the time of 'change of life.' I also cured the worst case of lunacy that we ever had with your 'Favorite Prescription.' The case had been under a doctor's care three years."

If baby dies before the doctor comes, you will wish you had sent for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. In paper cover 21 one-cent stamps. Just the price of mailing. Cloth binding, ten stamps more. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Now that the Electric Light Company has shut down its plant the town presents a more gloomy appearance of an evening than ever. Acting upon a hint inserted in these columns last week many of our citizens are interesting themselves in the matter of having the plant resume operations under the sole management of a practical engineer. That the plant can be made to pay does not admit of a doubt, provided it is not conducted by a company composed of local business men. Sonoma could well afford to pay $50 per month for a street light service, but the company only charged $33.75. This sum has been paid very grudgingly and owing to local jealousies has not been paid at all the past two months, although the service was rendered in good faith. We dare say, in fact assert without fear of contradiction, that if the plant be operated by one man instead of a company that it can be run profitably and satisfactorily. Many of the people of Sonoma have been friendly disposed toward the Electric Light Company and its promotors, but the point we desire to make is this: If the plant is operated and controlled by an individual instead of a company of local business men all the people will be friendly disposed, and will stand in on the proposition to sustain Sonoma's only modern improvement.

THE Board of Supervisors of Stanislaus county recently passed an ordinance prohibiting the shipment of game from the county. Last Monday J. M. Knapp, a market hunter of Newman, tendered some ducks to Wells-Fargo for shipment and was promptly arrested by Game Commissioner Blackwell. He was given a hearing before Judge Smith and plead guilty. Upon refusal to pay a fine of $20 he was ordered committed to the county jail at Modesto for twenty days. The Hunters' Union proposes to test the validity of the ordinance, and V. G. Frost of Merced, its attorney, will sue for a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Minor on the ground that Knapp is illegally restrained of his liberty, and should he not be liberated the matter will be taken at once to the Supreme Court. This is in the nature of a test case and no further shipments of game will be made from that county until the matter is finally decided.

THE re-election of Mayor Phelan in San Francisco last Tuesday was a great victory for the taxpayers and progressive people of that town The San Francisco Bulletin, in casting politics aside and supporting Mr. Phelan, contributed not a little to the result. The Bulletin can always be depended upon to stand by the people of San Francisco in local issues and its support of Mr Phelan as against Mr. Davis, the regular Republican nominee, is but one of the many instances where it has evinced a spirit of independence that is really commendable.

DR. C. C. O'DONNELL received for Coroner nearly 16,000 votes at ths recent election in San Francisco, being defeated for the office by less than 3000 votes, Who can say that the Dr. has not a following in the metropolis when it is taken into consideration that he ran independent of the two great parties and entirely on his own hook? It was really a misfortune to San Francisoe that he was defeated. It is true that he is a little cranky on certain subjects, but for all that when he he held the office a number of years ago he inaugurated many reforms and made one of the best Coroners San Francisco ever had.

THE Petaluma Courier was twenty four years old last Wednesday. The Courier is one of our valued exchanges and we wish it continued success.

SENATOR PERKINS will please accept our thanks for public documents,

THE British appear to be getting the best of the Boers according to latest accounts,

THE water problem is about to be solved. S. Schocken and H. Weyl, both of whom have heretofore opposed a municipal ownership of water works, have given the City Trustees an option on their wells. Should one or both of these wells be selected as a source of supply for a municipal water system the proposition to bond the town for $20,000 will surely carry. The Schocken and Weyl wells have an immense flowing capacity and would furnish more than enough water for municipal purposes. It would be economy in the long run for the city to buy one of these flowing wells.

GEN. JOE WHEELER writes as follows regarding the insurrection in the Philippines: "I am delighted with the Philippine Islands. I have no doubt that a little push and energy this fall will crush out the Aguinaldo insurrection. Out of 9,000,000 people in these islands I do not think that he has more than 20,000 soldiers, and in a square fight 5,000 Americans would tear them to pieces. All that is necessary to crush them out at once is for the army to get at them and keep at them until the work is done. The action of some people in the United States in asserting that the people of the Philippines ought to have independence does a great deal of harm and assists Aguinaldo in maintaining the insurrection, as he publishes all assertions by Americans of that character, and he tells his supporters that if they hold out until winter independence will be given them."

Output of the Klondike.

No one will ever know exactly how much gold was taken from the Klondike fields the past season. The estimate ranges from $10,000,000 to $25,000,000. Since the English Government imposed a royality of 10 per cent, the miners have adopted all sorts of ruses to evade the law. It is rather a difficult operation to dodge taxes, but it is more difficult still to dodge a bad cold and the grip at this time of year. When the system is weakened by such attacks, and the blood becomes thin and impoverished, the best medicine to take is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This remedy builds up the system. Besides regulating digestion, it overcomes constipation in a perfectly natural way. It is good for the kidneys and liver, too, stimulating each of these organs into the proper performance of their functions. Nothing is so good for malaria.

The Special Reserve Old Government Whiskey.

The board of health of San Francisco has resolved to distribute among the returning soldiers a quantity of the purest grain liquor measured in Government warehouses and has accepted for the sanitary purpose a liberal supply of Old Government Whiskey. Under the circumstances this is quite a happy thought. It is almost as if Uncle Sam said to his faithful fighters: "I don't encourage drinking, boys, but when you really need a stimulant take a bottle of Special Reserve." Sold by A. Pinelli.

Have You Heard Of It?

You may have heard about SCOTT'S EMULSION and have a vague notion that it is cod-liver oil with its bad taste and smell and all its other repulsive features. It is cod-liver oil, the purest and the best in the world, but made so palatable that almost everybody can take it. Nearly all children like it and ask for more.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

looks like cream; it nourishes the wasted body of the baby, child or adult better than cream or any other food in existence. It bears about the same relation to other emulsions that cream does to milk. If you have had any experience with other so-called "just as good" preparations, you will find that this is a fact.

The hypophosphites that are combined with the cod-liver oil give additional value to it because they tone up the nervous system and impart strength to the whole body.

A New Dental College.

The California College of Dental Surgery opened its first course of lectures on the 23rd of October with an address delivered by Professor David Starr Jordan. President of the Leland Stanford Jr. University. The speaker was introduced by Dr. S. W. Dennis, Dean of the College. Dr. Jordan spoke in part as follows: "An art differs from a trade in this respect: It requires that new brains be continually put into it. A trade, once learned, may be practiced automatically and may be perfected by practice. It is very easy for a trade to rise into a profession, an art. An art is progressive; a trade, strictly speaking, is not. There are men who paint pictures as a trade. You can see them on Market street painting signs by the yard with both hands. A trade does not require outside knowledge or special graces. The habit of handling the tools is one of the great features in a trade. Dentistry is an art—a profession. It is a line of business that is progressive. A man in dentistry continually learns from his own experience and from the experience of others—if he is progressive. He must put in headwork and he must be able to learn something from every valuable experience. The dentist who is successful must be progressive. As Dr. Dennis organized and was Dean of the Dental Department of the University of California for several years it would appear that his experience would qualify him, eminently, for the new school, as well as the position he occupies as Dean or Chief Executive Officer.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In Buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational Church met at the residence of Mrs. Robt. Poppe, Thursday afternoon. This society is doing much good among the worthy poor of this valley.

Geo. H. Maxwell has been appointed by the Board of Supervisors a delegate from this valley to the State Irrigation Convention which convenes in San Francisco on the 14th inst.

The weather so far this season has been remarkably favorable for the stock-raiser and dairyman. The pasture lands are already affording feed in plenty for stock, which is waxing fat off the wild grasses.

Last Thursday H. Schottler of San Francisco purchased the famous trotting filly, Alameda Maid, from the executors of the Fair estate. The mare has a record of 2:16 and it is said that with proper training she can be made to reel off a mile in 2:10.

Ducks are reported scarce in the Sonoma marshes, and good shooting is not expected until a heavy storm sets in and makes things lively for the birds along the shores of San Pablo Bay, where it is said they are congregated by the thousands.

Forrest's Colored Minstrels held forth in Union Hall last Thursday and Friday evenings. As cake walkers they were the real thing and their songs and jokes were up to date. This troupe is one of the best that has visited Sonoma in a long time and we take pleasure in recommending them to the theatregoing public even though they failed to favor us with the customary "comps."

Peter Cooper said that in all towns where a newspaper is published every man should advertise in it, even if no more than stating his name and the business he is engaged in. It does not only pay the advertiser, but lets people at a distance know that the town you live in is a prosperous community of business men. Never pull down your sign while you expect to do business.

THE LATE C. F. LEIDING.

Exact Copy of His Last Will and Testament.

C. F. Leiding, who recently died in Oakland, was for many years one of Sonoma's respected, enterprising and wealthy citizens. He left the following will, which has been filed for probate in Alameda county:

Last will and testament of Christoph Frederick Leiding.

First—I revoke any and all wills by me heretofore made.

Second—All that belongs to me I give and bequeath to my beloved wife Minna (nee Montigel).

Third—I appoint the said Minna Leiding my sole executrix without bonds.

This will is written by my own hand at my present home in Oakland, No. 1474 Ninth street, corner of Chester. It is written and signed by me this sixteenth day of August, 1893.

CHRISTOPH FREDERICK LEIDING.

Sept. 11, 1899.

In case my wife not being able to act as executrix I want my nephew Otto Rufus to act as the same without bonds.

C. F. LEIDING.

Bicycle and Social Club.

The Sonoma Bicycle and Social Club was organized in Union Hall last Monday evening. The following are the officers: Mr. Wm. Stevens, President; Mr. Bert H. Jones, Secretary; Mr. S. G. Glaister, Treasurer and Mr. Steve Akers, Captain. A Board of Directors composed of five members was appointed by the President whose duty it will be to call meetings when necessary to insure future progress. The club now has a membership of twenty-five which will no doubt be doubled, as each and every member is a worker.

The first event of any importance will be a series of bicycle races to take place on Broadway on Thanksgiving day. Training quarters will be furnished for the racers and as soon as possible a cottage will be rented for the purpose of setting up therein athletic apparatus. There will also be a billiard and reading room for members who desire to spend the long winter evenings at the club's quarters.

Jas. A. Shaw Home at Last.

Jas. A. Shaw of Kenwood, after being thrice shipwrecked and passing through many hardships in the frozen north, arrived at his home in Kenwood last Friday. Jim Shaw, every body in Sonoma county knows Jim, left with a party of other gold seekers for Alaska nearly two years ago. During his absence he has prospected and roughed it in Kotzebue. Nome and other God-forsaken places. Mr. Shaw's return brought gladness into the heart of his daughter Mrs. Kynnersley of Wildwood, who for the past two years has constantly feared for her father's safety.

The Tomales Fair.

The following are the winning numbers of the Tomales Catholic Church Fair, which recently closed in that place: Swiss watch, 194; oil painting, 206; plow, 457; gents gold chain, 446; tea set, 2; writing desk, 373; lady's gold watch and chain, 271; twenty-dollar gold piece, 338; cart, 332. About $3000 were realized by the ladies for the benefit of the church.

Mushrooms.

Mushroom gathering has been all the rage the past week. This succulent fungoid is found in large quantities on the dairy and stock farms surrounding Sonoma and they appear to be more plentiful this year than ever.

An Important Difference.

To make it apparent to thousands, who think themselves ill, that they are not afflicted with any disease, but that the system simply needs cleansing, is to bring comfort home to their hearts, as a costive condition is easily cured by using Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and sold by all druggists.

The Place to Trade.

When you are in need of fine underwear, boots, shoes, hats or winter goods, don't forget to call on Mrs. T. Olivieri dealer in general merchandise next door to the Postoffice. Her prices are the lowest and the goods No. 1.

The Latest Yarn.

A Pittsburg drummer tells this new yarn I always carry a bottle of Kemp's Balsam in my grip. I take cold easily and a few doses of the Balsam always make me a well man. Everywhere I go I always speak a good word for Kemp. I take hold of my customers—I take old men and young men and tell them confidentially what I do, when I take cold. At druggists, 25c, and 50c.

TO CURE LA GRIPPE IN TWO DAYS

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE TABLETS. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature on every box. 25c.

M. E. Church Services.

The usual Sunday services will be held to-morrow, both morning and evening, in the M. E. church by the pastor Rev. Henry Pearce. The subject in the morning will be: "The Supreme Test of a Follower of Christ." A male quartette will also sing. The evening services will begin with song service which will be followed by a sermon entitled "Christ a Social Reformer." All are cordially invited.

Compulsory Vaccination.

Complaint reaches this office that while many school children in this valley have been compelled to present certificates of vaccination before being permitted to attend the public schools others have not been required to present such certificates. If this be true it is discrimination with a vengeance and the matter ought to be inquired into by the School Trustees of the various districts of both town and valley.

Work of Jupiter Pluvious.

According to the gauge of U. S. Signal Observer Robert Hall, the rainfall at Sonoma up to date is as follows:

Past 24 hours	0.54 inches.
For the season	7.26 "
Same time last season	1.25 "

LAST SEASON:

September	0.36 iuches.
October	0.89 "
November	0.91 "
December	0.99 "

A. C. Tubbs is Dead.

Austin C. Tubbs, president of the Tubbs Cordage Company of San Francisco, died very suddenly last Wednesday afternoon at his beautiful country home in San Mateo, heart disease being the cause of death.

Deceased was a son of J. C. Tubbs, for whom Tubbs' Island, a few miles south of Sonoma, was named. He was forty-one years of age and a graduate of Harvard. He belonged to many social and sporting clubs in San Francisco and was very popular.

The funeral was conducted at San Mateo Friday morning.

These Are Winners.

The Ladies' Fair held in Tomales last month was a great success. The proceeds will be added to the amount previously donated for the erection of a new Catholic Church at that place. Miss Gericke, sister of Otto Gericke, was prominently interested in selling tickets in this valley. Following is a list of the winning numbers: Oil painting, 206; ladies Swiss watch, 194; steel plow, 457; gentleman's gold chain, 446; China tea set, 2; writing desk, 373; ladies gold watch and chain, 271; $20 gold piece, 84; brooder, 338; road cart, 332.

Grand View Changes Hands.

Mr and Mrs. Thos. Erskine have sold their beautiful home, "Grand View," to Mrs. Elizabeth C. Allen of San Francisco, wife of E. T. Allen, the well known dealer in sportsmens' goods of that city. Mr. and Mrs. Allen will take immediate possession. Mr. and Mrs. Erskine will shortly leave for Chicago.

Funeral of Capt. Green.

The remains of the late Capt. Wm. Green, who died at his home in Embarcadero on Thursday of last week, were laid to rest in the Catholic Cemetery in this place last Sunday. The funeral of the old pioneer was one of the largest ever held in Sonoma.

Accident at Reclamation.

J. Pomeroy, a ranch hand at Reclamation, had his left foot badly larcerated with a disc harrow on Tuesday last. He was taken to Petaluma for surgical treatment. The injury, although painful, is not considered dangerous.

"The Thorn Comes Forth With Point Forward."

The thorn point of disease is an ache or pain. But the blood is the feeder of the whole body. Purify it with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Kidneys, liver and stomach will at once respond? No thorn in this point.

Blood Poisoning—"The surgeon said when he took out the brass shell received in wound at San Juan Hill two weeks before, that it would have poisoned me if it had not been for my pure blood. I told him it was Hood's Sarsaparilla that made it pure." GEORGE P. COOPER, Co. G, 25th U. S. Inf., Washington Barracks, Washington, D. C.

Rheumatism—"Myself and a friend both suffered from severe attacks of rheumatism. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured both. We would not be without it." WM. H. LESTER, 65 Leonard St., Fall River, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Never Disappoints

Hood's Pills cure liver ills; the non-irritating and only cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Runaway Accident.

The Misses Lalita and Natalia Haraszthy had an exciting experience at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. While driving along Napa street their horse became frightened near Stevens' blacksmith shop and commenced to kick and run. The young ladies held bravely to the reins and suceeeded in running the terrified steed into the iron railing on the bank of the creek opposite the Bates residence. The dashboard of the phaeton was kicked to pieces, but no other damage was done.

An Interesting Aggregation.

Granville Harris is conducting a menagerie in connection with his livery stable, and his animals are a source of curiosity to the public. At present his corral is populated by a cow and calf, a donkey and youthful offspring, a Shetland pony that is credited with thirty years of existence, a draft horse that tips the beam at 2,000 pounds, a trotting descendant of the famous Stamboul with a mark of 2:24, and many other spectacular specimens.

Mrs. Fanny Dunn, executrix of the estato of her late husband, Thomas M. Dunn, on Wednesday last, filed her first and final account of the estate in the Superior Court. She also filed a petition for distribution of the property.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

H. H. GRANICE, Proprietor.

SONOMA, SATURDAY, NOV. 11, 1899.

ONE GIRL'S HEART.

"What very fine young men your nephews are, Mr. Archer," said his visitor.

"Yes, I suppose so," replied the old uncle, "but I wish they hadn't been brought up in the idea that they have a rich relative to fall back upon. Florian is desperately extravagant, and there's something about Albert that reminds me of the ring of false metal."

Left to himself, Mr. Archer's thoughts were still busy with his nephews when Florian Leverson sauntered in.

"Well, uncle," he saluted, dropping into a chair.

"Well, young man."

"I was just looking for you. I want to tell you something."

"More debts, eh?"

"Not exactly, sir. I—I am engaged to be married."

"And who is the young lady?"

"Alice Dean."

"A pretty girl enough, but she doesn't care a straw for you. It's your expectations she's going to marry."

"Uncle!"

"Don't tell me!" muttered Amos Archer. "Marry the girl, if you like, but if you were not the nephew of a rich old bachelor she wouldn't look at you twice!"

"Uncle, you are speaking what is false."

"Hold your tongue, sir, or I will disinherit you!"

"I'd sooner be disinherited than insulted."

Mr. Archer arose and strode out of the room, nearly tumbling over his other nephew, Albert Wheatley, at the head of the stairs.

But Mr. Archer had hurried down the stairs and into the street. Half an hour later he came back with an air of unusual bustle and excitement.

"Boys," he cried, looking in upon his nephews, "I've got to go west to see about those railroad lands I have been buying. There's trouble in the new board of directors, and I must look after my interests in person."

And with this he vanished.

Alice Dean was retrimming her hat a couple of weeks afterward when the door opened abruptly, giving admittance to Florian Leverson. She smiled a welcome, but could not help looking startled at the unusual pallor of his face.

"Florian, what has happened?" she cried, springing to her feet.

"I have bad news for you, Alice," her lover responded, handing her back to her seat and sitting down beside her. "My uncle has died suddenly somewhere out west, and—I am a beggar."

"Oh, Florian! I thought he was rich!"

"And so he was, but through some strange pique or provision he has left all his fortune to my cousin Albert."

"But Mr. Wheatley will surely divide with you, Florian," suggested Alice. "He knows that you two were brought up together in anticipation of an equal share of the family estate."

Florian's lips curled bitterly.

"Then, Alice, my little treasure, there is but one alternative open to me—to give you back your liberty, to free you from our engagement. I cannot drag you down to poverty with me."

"Florian," cried Alice, with the tears flashing into her soft eyes and a deeper crimson coming to her cheeks, "do you think I would turn from you at such a moment as this? Never, dearest! Let us be poor and happy together. We can both work and love will gild our pathway, even if we live in a hovel."

"My darling," was the reply of Florian as he clasped her to his heart, "let Albert Wheatley have the Archer fortune. He cannot be happier with it than we shall be without it."

A few days later a queerly attired little old man, muffled up to the ears and coughing behind a huge handkerchief, had called upon Lawyer Dana about a trifling point of law, which was quickly disposed of, but somehow the attorney and the caller drifted into a conversation which soon reached the sudden death of Amos Archer.

"I have been told he was enormously rich," observed the caller, tapping the lid of his snuffbox.

"Yes," said Mr. Dana, "but of one thing I am quite certain—to use a Hibernicism, the greatest mistake of his life time was at his death."

"How so?"

"Why, in leaving his money to young Wheatley."

"A miser, eh?"

"To the contrary, as thankless a spendthrift as you ever saw," replied Dana—"gambling, betting at the races, vicious amusements and degrading company. His prosperity seems to act upon him as I have seen sunshine act on a rank, noisome patch of weeds, stimulating him into flaunting folly."

"There was another nephew, I believe?"

"Yes; Florian Leverson. He has just married and fills a responsible position in Jay & Dyson's banking house. Nobody had any idea of the steadiness and common sense there were in that young fellow."

The caller took a pinch of snuff noisily. "Must be a curious young man," he said. "Whom did he marry?"

"Miss Dean, and a very energetic, thoroughgoing wife she makes him. Of the two nephews the disinherited one seems to have secured the most real happiness."

"It's a very peculiar story," said the caller, arrising. "I must be going. Many thanks for your politeness."

Florian Leversou and his wife were sitting at their unpretentious fireside when there came a knock at the door. The husband started a little.

"If my uncle were not dead and buried," he declared, "I should say that is his knock!"

"Nonsense!" returned Alice, opening the door.

There stood Amos Archer, smiling contentedly.

"Good evening," he said, walking in as if nothing had happened.

Husband and wife stared at him a moment as if he had been an apparition.

"Uncle!" then gasped Florian.

"Yes, that's who I am," declared Mr. Archer, turning his back to the fire. "I wanted to see for myself how things were going to work, and I've done so. Albert's stock is below par, and you and this bright little wife of yours—come here my dear, and give me a kiss—are trumps and true blue!"

Uncle Archer's ruse had settled several questions. Albert Wheatley, shorn of his temporary prosperity, is toiling as a billiard marker, and Mr. Archer is quite at home with Mr. and Mrs. Florian Leverson.—Leon Lewis in New York World.

His Mean Why.

"Henry asked you if you had made that cake, did he? Well, what was there in that to wound your feelings, child?"

"It was the—the way he said it, mamma He—he didn't ask m-me if I'd made it He—he said, 'Darling, d-did you pervpirate this cake?' "—Chicago Tribune.

Notice of Business Change.

The old saying that "the unlooked-for always happens" may be true in the present instance. The Sonoma News is no more! Having sold the paper and its good will to Mr. Granice, the business and subscription books pass into his hands. Those who are in arrears for their paper will please pay Mr. Granice and those who have paid in advance will receive the INDEX-TRIBUNE to full extent of their subscriptions.

There are three reasons I might give for making this change. It is well known that I did not buy the News with the intention of running it myself. A person usually sells a commercial commodity when the price asked is accepted. The third reason is the more potent one—our patronizing territory is too limited to properly support two weekly newspapers.

But we do need and must have for the weal of the commonwealth one good, wide-awake paper, which shall be alive to the best interests of our people, and such a paper Mr. Granice will be able to furnish us providing he has the good will and support his paper merits. So we sincerely hope all our subscribers and patrons will lend a hand.

With a thank you to our friends and wishes for the success of the INDEX-TRIBUNE we break our quill.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm Cures

Others, Why not You?

My wife has been using Chamberlain's Pain Balm, with good results, for a lame shoulder that has pained her continually for nine years. We have tried all kinds of medicines and doctors without receiving any benefit from any of them. One day we saw an advertisement of this medicine and thought of trying it, which we did with the best of satisfaction. She has used only one bottle and her shoulder is almost well.—ADOLPH L. MILLET, Manchester, N. H. For sale by F. Duhring.

A Minister's Mistake.

A city minister was recently handed a notice to be read from his pulpit. Accompanying it was a clipping from a newspaper bearing upon the matter. The clergyman started to read the extract and found that it began: "Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure." This was hardly what he expected and, after a moment's hesitation, he turned it over, and foundon the other side the matte intended for the reading.
